

CLASS-DAY CEREMONIES

Interesting Exercises at the Woman's College.

NAMES OF GRADUATES

And Those Who Won Honors in the Various Branches of Study—Commencement Will Be Held To-Day.

Class day ceremonies at the Woman's College yesterday passed off without a single untoward incident to mar their great pleasure.

At 11 o'clock A. M., the graduates of 1903 proudly donned their caps and gowns for their finals. They included Miss Marie Guthrie, president; Miss Nell Sinton, class orator; Miss Jessie Lane, class historian; Miss Myrtle Langford, class prophet; Miss Ethel Fitzpatrick, class poet; Miss Rosa Smith, treasurer; Miss Lulu Kirk, bonfire orator; Miss Eleanor Ryland, Miss Etta Ankers, Miss Ruth Harrison, Miss Mattie Garrett, Miss Marion Terrell, Miss Mary Herndon and Miss Denise Morris.

The class was welcomed in the college chapel, to which its members proceeded, by the president, who said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, friends of the class of 1903, it is my pleasant duty to welcome you to-day in the name of that class. This is, indeed, a proud day for us; this is unreservedly our day, our very own which belongs exclusively to us. But there would be no pleasure in having a day if you were not here to cheer us; encourage us, honor us, and compliment us by your gracious presence."

Orator of the Day.

Continuing along these lines for some moments, Miss Guthrie turned and graciously introduced the orator of the day, Miss Nell Sinton. Miss Sinton took for her theme the class motto "Nil Desperandum." Her oration which was very fine, closed with this paragraph:

"Our mothers started life in a day when woman's sphere and opportunities were not half so great as ours. They did not see as much of life in a year as the girl of to-day sees in a week. If, out of their comparative poverty of opportunity, they could attain unto such perfection of womanly grace and sweetness, what might we, whose lives so rich and beautiful, what may we not hope to accomplish who have had all that healthy ambition could desire?"

The Class History.

The oration was followed by the class history given by Miss Jessie Lane in a most graphic and interesting fashion. In referring to the class, Miss Lane declared: "The history of the class is an organization is finished; the year has past; nothing has been despised or the victory is won, and we await only the coming laurels of our triumph—our degrees."

Miss Myrtle Langford, as class prophet, anchored Miss Etta Ankers' Jones Eabor. Furthermore, she made Miss Marion Terrell a future authoress; Miss Lulu Kirk, a future poet; Miss Eleanor Ryland, a future novelist; Miss Rosa Smith, a co-educational advocate; Miss Ruth Harrison, a musician; Miss Denise Morris, a dramatist; Miss Marie Guthrie, an educator; Miss Mary Herndon, an editor; Miss Jessie Lane, a homemaker; and Miss Ethel Fitzpatrick, a post-graduate.

The prophecy for the prophet, now cast by the president, assigned Miss Langford her turn to a prominent place in the dramatic world and completed the forecast for the future.

The class poet, Miss Ethel Fitzpatrick, then gave her poem as so appropriate and well expressed that two of its verses are quoted here:

To-day we stand on the threshold
Of life, with its hopes and fears;
As yet, we know only the pleasures
With never a thought of the tears.

Let us, like tapestry weavers,
Unquestioning, do our share
Hoping, when life is ended,
Our work will prove bright and fair.

A Farewell Poem.

A "farewell poem," written by Mr. Minor, of Barton Heights, was next sung as the students filed out of the chapel and assembled in the courtyard in front of the class tree, a silver maple, named after Mr. Nelson. Miss Rosa Smith, the tree orator, said:

"It is a fancy that it shall take a falling pride in the fact that it was put here by the graduates of 1903. It is a fancy that it shall exist in our triumphs, follow us in our fortunes, moan over our troubles and whisper our glories to its companion which, other classes shall come around it. It shall perpetuate on its spot the memory of our struggle with Latin, physics and mathematics, and above all the bonds of love which have been forged in the many happy experiences and tender intimacies of college life."

The last ceremonial on the lawn was the bonfire. The bonfire orator was Miss Lulu Kirk, who gave her classmates advice for feeding the flames after this wise:

"Fire is said to purify all things and we sincerely hope that it will purify our memories of disagreeable things. If next year's girls could know what agony we have suffered in the days now past, and how the hearts of the future seers would fall when they matured here to follow the footsteps of the ones only to drop these books into the flames, and never again to look back upon them with regret or pain, come comrades one and all and feed is burning monster."

Revenge is sweet
But still sweeter to know
That here we have found ends
All of our schoolgirl's woes.

EXPERT TESTIMONY.

Coffee Tried and Found Guilty.

No one who has studied its effects on the human body can deny that coffee is a strong drug, and liable to cause all kinds of ills, while Postum is a powerful re-builder, that will correct the ills caused by coffee when used steadily in place of coffee.

An expert who has studied the subject says: "I have studied the value of coffee from the manufacture of food products from personal investigation, and wish to bear testimony to the wonderful qualities of Postum Cereal Coffee. I was an excessive coffee drinker, although I knew it to be a slow poison. First it affected my nerves, and then my heart, but when I once tried Postum I found it easy to give up the coffee, confirmed coffee fiend though I was."

"Postum satisfied my craving for coffee, and since drinking Postum steadily in place of the coffee all my troubles have disappeared, and I am again healthy and strong."

"I know that even where coffee is not taken to excess, it has a bad effect on the constitution in some form or other, and I am convinced by my investigation that the only thing to do to health and happiness are of any value to one is to quit coffee and drink Postum." The Commencement.
The commencement exercises, including the awarding of degrees, will take place at 4 P. M. to-day in the Academy of Music, when Dr. Cecil will make the address.
At the reception to be given in the Woman's College parlors to-night, guests will be received by Dr. and Mrs. Nelson, the college faculty and the graduates.
For the first time this year the faculty offered a prize for the best poem by a student. The prize was won by Miss Isabel Walker, of King and Queen county.
Miss Macon Barnes, of Middlesex county, was second choice.
The judges who gave the award were: Mr. W. S. Copeland, of The Times-Di-

world is sleeping
Beneath the golden stars, soft, pitying
Goodnight dear heart! For you one heart is keeping
A silent vigil through the lonely night
Goodnight dear heart! Would I might wake to sorrow,
If by that sorrow I could save you
tears:
Goodnight dear heart! Then bright would be the morning,
Though I should face alone the loveless years.

Of what we hope may prove a happier
day.
Goodnight dear heart! God keep you 'till
the morning,
And guard you safe from every harm,
I pray.
Goodnight dear heart! May dreams the angels send you;
Be like your daily thoughts, as pure and
true as the stars.
Goodnight dear heart! Close now these tender eyes of blue,
And rest undisturbed by life's toll and
care.
Goodnight dear heart! Though all the
